

WOOD AFTERCARE

Working with wood is a material that can handle wear and tear if treated correctly. We believe in the importance of a finish that has longevity. Wood is made of plant fibres and we spend a lot of time taming it, making it smooth and warm to the touch so that it feels like wood.

Memories of Green uses oils made by Osmo that offer hard-wearing protection while keeping the wood looking like wood. The finishes are derived from natural oils and waxes that are kind to the material soaking into the surface and keeping out dirt while still allowing the wood to breathe. These finishes provide good resistance to spillages wiped away relatively quickly with a damp cloth.

You can clean the sculpture more thoroughly with warm soapy water or a spray cleaner by Osmo. A liquid wax cleaner by Osmo can also be applied annually to keep the wood finish up to strength. Try something like this on a patch of wood on the underside of the piece to see how it looks first.
